

I am upset with and disappointed at Sinclair Broadcasting's decision to air an anti-Kerry documentary days before the election. This is a clear example of the dangers of media consolidation.

Sinclair is obligated by law to serve the public interest. Instead of something produced at a remote location, it's more important that we see real people from our own communities and more substantive news about issues that matter.

Sinclair's actions show why we need to strengthen media ownership rules, not weaken them. They show why the license renewal process needs to involve more than a returned postcard. Thank you.
